

Abstract

A method for generating and/or expanding a vocabulary database of a voice recognition system includes acoustically training the voice recognition system using a computer-based audio module.